PRIVATE HOMES CONSTRUCTION SHOWS PICK UP

Long Waited For Increase in Heavy Goods Industries Becomes Apparent.

EMPLOYMENT BETTER TOO

Has Many Jobless To Absorb, However; Lumber Mills and Rail Shops at Low Ebb.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 — Government statisticians said today that America's long idle carpenters, bricklayers and other skilled workers are beginning to find jobs in the construction of private homes.

Increased private construction has drawn the attention of economists who have been watching anxiously for improvement of the long-dragging heavy goods industries. They also found other lines of improvement in this vital field along with some discouraging features.

Conditions on Rise

Isador Lubin, commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, summarized the situation by saying conditions in the building industry were "very definitely on the rise." He added that "employment in the heavy goods industries generally is improving, although it has a great distance to go to reach the level of non-durable goods."

An inter-office memorandum prepared by the statistics division of the federal housing administration said "the available information indicates that at least the building industry is beginning to absorb its unemployed."

It warned, however, that there was still a "long way to go," because even in 1930, when employment was higher than in any other recent year, it was only 88 per cent of normal.

Others Upward But Spotty.

A survey of available government figures showed that other indices of activity in the heavy industries tended generally upward, but were spotty. Employment in July showed an index of 69.3 per cent of the 1923-25 average, as compared with 67.4 a year ago, and payrolls were 55.5 as compared with 49.9.

Some industries were declared back to "normal" during the summer, with agricultural implement makers and automobile manufacturers employing more than during the 1923-25 period, but lumber mills were averaging less than half the workers, and railroad repair shops were at almost as low level.

Lubin said the index of 90 in the machine tools industry was of particular significance with respect to future activity. But he acknowledged that in some cases it might signify the substitution of machinery for men.

Point to Shipments

As evidence of the long-looked for pick up in building, officials pointed to figures on shipments of construction materials and building permits. Government spending figured in the former, but the private building had shown little life until recent months.

Building permits in 753 cities jumped from 1,808 for residential buildings in July, 1934, to 5,124 in July of this year. The money involved was $6,699,863, and $27,397,653, respectively.

TRANSIENT RELIEF IN MARION CO. ENDS

Equipment Removed From State Street Station; Will Be Sent to Columbus.

Transient relief in Marion county ended today with the closing of registration books at the federal transient bureau on North State street.

Equipment was being removed today and trucks were to arrive from central relief headquarters in Columbus tonight to transfer it to that office. Only 10 transients remain here to assist Director J. W. Eichelberger in dismantling the bureau. The remainder of the transient work staff has been transferred to Apple Creek, O., where the men will be placed on a WPA project.

The elimination of the Marion bureau is a step on the part of the federal government to do away with all relief for transients by Nov. 1. Most of the bureaus in the state will be closed by Oct. 1.

It is expected other forms of direct relief will follow the transient bureaus out of existence next month. The government has operated the bureau on North State street since last December.

Federal Housing Week Program Mapped Here

State Officials Outline Events To Begin Tuesday; Public Meetings and "Clinic" Included.

Next week will be federal housing week in Marion and vicinity. State FHA (federal housing administration) officials and field workers, with cooperation of Marion business men, have planned a busy program of activities for the week. These activities will acquaint residents of Marion and adjoining counties with benefits they can obtain in the nationwide FHA program.

The FHA is a federal agency that has enabled financial institutions to lend money at low interest rates for repair and modernization of buildings and for construction of new buildings.

Three field representatives from the Columbus office of the FHA arrived in Marion yesterday to begin preliminary arrangements for next week's program. They are Mrs. Marguerite J. McCollum, Preston B. Daley and Dean B. Belt.

They are arranging for Marion one of the first of a long series of FHA "clinics" to be held throughout the state to explain how the administration can help individuals and communities with their problems of home modernization and construction.

Next Week's Program

Next week's activities will be featured by a meeting Tuesday night of building supply dealers and contractors, a mass meeting for the general public Thursday night and operation of the clinic on Friday and Saturday at the Chamber of Commerce offices. Speakers will explain details of the FHA program at the two meetings and at the clinic, FHA officials and technical men will be in the Chamber offices to counsel with individuals about specific projects that might be handled under the FHA, to assist persons in making out applications for loans and explaining the technical points in building construction and repairs.

"The objects of these clinics," Mr. Belt said, "are threefold. First, we want to educate the general public regarding benefits of borrowing under the national housing act, second to show contractors and building supply dealers that greater business is obtainable through their cooperation with the FHA and third, put more people to work through a desire of other people for better homes."

Next week's clinic will be the fourth held in Ohio. Others have been held at Toledo, Akron, Bellaire and Martins Ferry. They will be continued throughout the state until all populous counties are reached.

Among the men who will take part in programs of next week's meetings are John E. Harper, state director of the FHA, with headquarters in Columbus, Albert L. Guckert, director of the Columbus district of which Marion county is a part, W. Frank Rosell, assistant director for the district, M. Justin Meyer of Columbus, manager of financial relations, and Walter Pettit, architectural supervisor.

Committees of business men and possibly a women's committee were to be organized this afternoon to help sponsor the clinic. FHA loans are obtainable through local banks under what are known as Title I and Title II of the national housing act.

Under Title I, loans have been made available by the government through banks and other financial institutions for altering, repairing, equipping or otherwise improving home, farm or business properties. Up to $2,000 may be borrowed at a low rate of interest for as long as five years and repaid in monthly installments. For certain types of business property improvements, as much as $50,000 may be borrowed.

Under Title II, insured mortgage loans are available for constructing new urban residences, purchasing existing homes or refinancing existing mortgages. Mortgages may cover up to 80 per cent of the appraised value of a residential property and may run for as long as 20 years. They are paid off in monthly installments equivalent to average rentals.

BANDITS USE LOCAL CAR TAG

Youthful Trio Rob Two More Stations at Sunbury and Delaware.

Seven Holdups in Eight Days Chalked Up to Group; Evade Capture.

Using a license plate stolen from Marion on their automobile, three armed bandits last night held up and robbed gasoline service stations at Delaware and Sunbury, running to seven the total number of "jobs" they have pulled in the last eight days.

State Highway Patrolmen C. N. Long and P. L. Wasson of the Marion sub-station were called after the robberies last night, but could find no trace of the bandit car.

The station at Sunbury was held up at 8:30 p. m., and the Sinclair station on Main street near Ohio Wesleyan university in Delaware, was robbed at 10:05 p. m. The bandits obtained $57 in the two holdups.

The night of Sept. 11 license plate No. Q-4121 was stolen from the rear of an automobile belonging to W. M. Doughty of 136 North Seffner avenue. That same night the three bandits held up and robbed gasoline service stations at Delaware and Worthington, getting approximately $52 from Huffman's station at Delaware. Since then they are reported to have robbed two stations at Lancaster and one at Chillicothe.

According to a broadcast over the state highway patrol radio system the bandits are using only the one Marion plate on their car, but have crudely made the letter "Q" into a "P." They are using an eight-cylinder 1935 Hudson sedan. The car is reported to have been stolen in Columbus.

Highway patrol officials describe the bandits as three youths, usually dressed in dark clothing, and who act "very nervous" during the hold ups, apparently being novices at the game. They make no effort to harm attendants, although all three are armed. The youths are believed to be hiding out in this district, and other central Ohio communities are warned by the state patrol that they may expect visits from the trio in the near future.

DEADLINE MAY KILL RIVER CONTROL PLAN

Army Engineers Say Project May Die in Files of Department.

Army engineers at Washington said today the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy project may die in their files due to the Sept. 12 deadline for filing public works administration applications, The Associated Press reported.

The engineers said the basic man-per-year cost proposed for the huge conservation and flood control project is "materially in excess" of the limit set under the works progress administration program.

Only an extension of the deadline or special action by President Roosevelt or WPA officials could force the application out of their hands, the engineers said. Louis W. Adams, public relations counsel for the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District, said today he was awaiting a decision from President Roosevelt definitely settling the status of the project.

This is in line with a general policy not to forward any more PWA applications.

The Scioto-Sandusky district is seeking more than $30,000,000 for its project.

The project is backed by a group of 17 counties, including Marion county, seeking construction of a series of dams on the Scioto and Sandusky rivers and their tributaries.

TRAFFIC CLUB MEMBERS HERE FOR FALL OUTING

Railroad and Factory Officials Meet at Marion Country Club for Social Session.

Prominent railroad officials, factory heads and traffic managers from all parts of Ohio and a number from other states were in Marion today for the annual fall outing of the Central Ohio Traffic club at the Marion Country club.

Here for a purely social meeting, members and visitors planned to spend the day playing golf on the Country club course and wind up their meeting with a dinner tonight. No business discussions or speeches were scheduled.

Among the early arrivals was a group of officials of the Erie railroad including R. E. Woodruff, vice president in charge of operations and maintenance, Mr. Woodruff, now in Cleveland, formerly was superintendent of the Kent division of the railroad with headquarters in Marion.

Others in the group of visiting Erie officials are Lynne L. White of Cleveland, vice president and assistant to the president; Carl Hown of Chicago, vice president; F. W. Rosser of Youngstown, general manager of the western district; George F. Weston of Cleveland, industrial commissioner; F. M. Amarica of Cleveland, editor of the Erie magazine; L. R. Knapp of Cleveland, assistant freight traffic manager; F. W. Holt of Cleveland, assistant purchasing agent; W. M. Sporleder of Huntington, Ind., superintendent; J. F. Blazier, agent at Ashland; J. W. Gilkinson, agent at Mansfield. Local Erie officials who joined them for the outing included F. J. Tampiin, superintendent of the Kent division with headquarters here, A. R. Tennis, division freight agent, and P. F. Nichols, division engineer. One group of the visiting officials came to Marion in a special car.

Others who had arrived at noon today included C. S. Millard, vice president and general manager of the Big Four railroad with offices in Cincinnati; George Merrill of Cleveland, assistant traffic manager of the Nickel Plate railroad;

JAIL ORDERED AS LIQUOR CURE

Man Accused of Larceny Must Spend Five Months in County Cell.

Criminal cases of two men who had been awaiting trial on indictments returned by Marion county grand juries were disposed of in common pleas court this morning when the men changed former pleas to guilty. Trial date of another person facing an indictment was changed.

Max Huston, 27, of Logansport, Ind., pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with grand larceny in connection with theft of a weighing machine from the entrance of the Gallaher Drug Co. store here June 24.

Judge Hector S. Young suspended sentencing him on the condition that he spend five months in the Marion county jail. Judge Young explained he had talked to Huston's father and brother, commented on the fact that Huston came from a good family and said he understood Huston's trouble resulted from his inability to "stay away from liquor."

Judge Young explained he was insisting on the five-months jail sentence to keep him away from liquor long enough to give him a chance to "get on his feet."

Lewis Wolfe, 27, also of Logansport, who Tuesday pleaded guilty to participation in the theft of the weighing machine from which he and Huston allegedly took $3,514 pennies, was taken to the penitentiary this morning by Sheriff Fred F. Miller and Deputy Gene Geissler to begin a term of one to seven years for his part in the theft.

LeRoy Austin, 19, of Marion, who previously had pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with breaking and entering the Home Market on Silver street last July 29 changing his plea this morning. An extra count of entering also was returned against him. The extra count was modified to grand larceny and Austin pleaded guilty to that charge. He was sentenced to an indeterminate term of one to two years in Mansfield reformatory.

Austin was represented by Homer E. Johnson. Fred W. Warner was counsel for Huston.

Watson Swisegood, alias C. J. Watson, of West Mansfield whose trial on a charge of issuing a check without funds was previously set for Sept. 26 was reassigned to Oct. 15.

CRIME BUREAU REQUESTED

Governor Wants State Agency Similar to U. S.; Also Asks Pension Law Change.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19—Three prime issues confronted a special session of the Ohio general assembly today. Another awaited final action by Gov. Davey.

Both houses, convening Wednesday, went into high gear and speedily enacted a measure to provide $5,000,000 from state liquor profits to finance old age pensions for the rest of the year.

The governor indicated he would sign the measure today.

Indications that the session may continue into next week, made their appearance. Pertinent problems were:

Legislation to finance a $20,000,000 state building program with the aid of federal funds.

Fund Shifts Needed

Transfer of funds in the biennial appropriation bill to offset $8,800,000 in vetoes made by the governor; and

Provide an organization to handle state funds to allocate to counties for direct relief after Nov. 1.

Gov. Davey also asked the legislators to consider creation of a state crime bureau, patterned after the U. S. department of investigation, and an amendment to the old age pension law to make Ohio eligible to receive federal pension benefits.

The house finance committee took up the fund transfer plan and the proposal to change the pension law was in the hands of the house labor committee.

Senate officials prepared to name members of four committees. That body recessed indefinitely last night after receiving bills to create a public institutional building authority, a state relief authority, and a bureau of criminal identification and investigation.

Four senators were to be named to a banks, building and loan and security law committee; 11 to a taxation committee, which will have authority to go into the sales tax; 11 to welfare and institutional building committee and six to an old age pension and social security group.

However, hearings are not planned before next week.

Paul P. Yoder, Democrat of Montgomery, majority floor leader, said there was no reason why the senate should remain in active session until the federal government approves the governor's proposed building program.

BRITAIN FACES CRISIS

Labor Party Leaders May Have To Quit Due to Their Pacific Attitudes.

By The Associated Press

Great Britain's increasing concentration of fighting ships in the Mediterranean — a concentration which is even calling warships from its West Indies fleet—was linked in the opinion of many delegates to the League of Nations with suggestions for an economic boycott of Italy in case that nation attacks Ethiopia.

Certain delegates said they believed Premier Mussolini might regard such a boycott as a virtual act of war, particularly in view of the possibility of a naval blockade being undertaken to enforce such a boycott.

Crisis In London

With Great Britain, a political party crisis was precipitated by the government attitude that the League of Nation's covenant must be upheld.

Heads of the Labor party were convoked in an "emergency meeting" on the question of whether Lord Ponsonby and George Lansbury, the party's leaders in the house of lords and commons, should be permitted to quit their posts because of their pacifism in view of the fact that the trades union council and the party indorsed the application of sanctions against an aggressor nation.

The Ethiopian government was stirred by an adviser to Emperor Haile Selassie as considering it had done everything possible to avert war and that from now on the question of peace rested with Italy.

Would Name Specialists

The Italo-Ethiopian committee of the League of Nations prepared a report suggesting the controversy between Italy and Ethiopia could be settled by the appointment of foreign specialists, to be approved by Emperor Haile Selassie, to supervise police and other functions of the Ethiopian government.

An Italian government spokesman said this report gave no occasion "for Italy to change her attitude of pessimism or skepticism."

Governor Tells Lawmakers Extra Session in October To Deal with Levies.

POINTS TO REQUIREMENTS

Says Assembly May as Well Prepare Frankly To Enact Additional Tax Laws.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19—Ohio's general assembly faced today Gov. Davey's sharp-pointed declaration that it must prepare to levy millions of dollars of new taxes.

He discussed this problem prominently in a personal message Wednesday night to a joint session of the house and senate. They are convened in special session to enact a three-fold $34,000,000 financing program.

The executive said that a tax levying program would be the principal issue of another special session to be called late in October or November.

Denounces "Demagogues"

Davey severely criticized the administration of relief by "theorists and demagogues," and proudly defended his reduction of $1,266,500 in the appropriations of Ohio State university.

Concerning the tax problem, Davey said:

"We might just as well prepare ourselves frankly to levy the necessary taxes to take care of new and extraordinary requirements.

"With the certainty that millions of new taxes will have to be levied, in addition to the proceeds of the sales tax, why should we not drive with might and main to save all we can in the normal operations of the government?

"We shall attempt to find additional ways of saving money. May I plead with you for fullest cooperation. When we know that taxes will have to be levied, then in heaven's name let us practice some genuine economy and make the burden as easy as we can."

Would Give Ample Funds

A new relief financing measure would give the counties ample funds to provide for indigents after the federal relief administration liquidates its state direct relief setup Nov. 1.

"When Ohio furnishes the money," Davey asserted, "those faults and abuses and crazy theories (of relief administration) will have to go. I am willing to match my humane impulses against those of the theorists and demagogues who shed copious tears on behalf of the unfortunates."

He reiterated charges of waste, inefficiency and inhuman practices in the relief program.

A bitter critic of President George Rightmire of Ohio State university, since the school official protested the appropriations reductions, Davey hurled another verbal blast at him.

"The president of the Ohio State university, in an ill-advised moment made a bitter and ill-tempered attack upon me and I fear he was guilty of intellectual dishonesty. Perhaps he thought the governor of Ohio could be browbeaten and that the legislature could be coerced into doing his bidding."

Suggests He Leave

Davey added that "if the president can not do a good job with $6,800,000 from the state treasury and $1,600,000 from student fees, he ought to confess his incapacity and get out."

President Rightmire has consistently refrained from replying to personal attacks made by the governor. His only answer was to resubmit the university's original budget.

Both standing and shock contests will be held.

A committee composed of Clifford Strine, Walter Bender and Robert Augenstein will select the fields and be in general charge of the contest.

DOCTOR TOLD HER HOW TO LOSE 17 POUNDS OF FAT

Eat Proper Foods

Mrs. Robert Hickey of Roseville, Calif., writes: "My doctor prescribed Kruschen Salts for me—he said they wouldn't hurt me in the least. I've lost 17 lbs. in six weeks. Kruschen is worth its weight in gold."

Mrs. Hickey paid no attention to gossipers who said there was no safe way to reduce. She wisely followed her doctor's advice.

To lose fat safely and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness, go light on fatty meats, butter, cream and sugary sweets.

Eat fresh vegetables, fruits, fowl and fish (except mackerel and salmon).

Take one half a teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts with the juice of half a lemon before breakfast every morning, and as the excess pounds go notice how much better you feel—more active—more ambition—gloriously alive—you feel younger—Kruschen costs as low as 40c.

No more cathartics—no more laxatives—and no constipation when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen. —Adv.

ARMY LEADER SPEAKS HERE

Former Marion Resident Tells of Work in Pennsylvania.

Major Victor C. Bryant, of New Kensington, Pa., former resident of Marion, spoke informally on his work since leaving Marion nearly 20 years ago, at last night's anniversary services at the Salvation Army hall on West Center street. Preceding the services at the hall he spoke at Calvary Evangelical church mid-week prayer service. He was a guest speaker at the Kiwanis club luncheon today and tonight will speak at the Salvation hall.

Last night's meeting at the Salvation Army hall was something of a home-coming for Major Bryant who was a worker in the Marion corps. He entered the army work during his residence here, and last night's audience included many of his old friends. The occasion marks the first visit of the major to Marion for 12 years.

He has been in the army work for 24 years and for the last eight years has been stationed at New Kensington. At Johnstown, Pa. where he was stationed for several years, he erected a Salvation Army building costing $78,000, which was free from debt on the day of dedication. At New Kensington he is reducing the debt on a spacious building erected by the army during the last few years.

Adjutant and Mrs. Walter Shackelford of Findlay, will come to Marion for the anniversary services Friday, and Saturday and Sunday Major Fred Malpass of Cincinnati, divisional commander for western Ohio, will conduct the services.

The anniversary program, which celebrates the return of Adjutant and Mrs. John Hunter to Marion for the fifth year, will close Monday night.

Marion P.-T.A. Members At Instruction School

Supt. C. A. Hudson Gives Address of Welcome at Second Annual City Conference.

The importance of many school subjects which the report made by C. O. Sherrill, head of Governor Davey's committee to work out a savings in state departments, would drop from the curricula was emphasized by C. A. Hudson, superintendent of public schools, in an address of welcome given to members and guests attending the second annual Marion city council Parent-Teacher association school of instruction which opened this morning at the First Reformed church.

Mention of the Sherrill report came when Mr. Hudson, in speaking of the necessity for a proper program of safety education for school children, said: "Safety is a real problem and must be included in the curriculum as should many other subjects important to education which Mr. Sherrill suggests dropping."

In opening his short address, he made mention of Constitution week, saying, "Our forefathers had a plan in mind for the education of the people without which the Constitution could not function as they planned it." He spoke of the need in today's school of vocational training for the problem child.

Forty men and women registered this morning and it was expected that the afternoon attendance would be much larger.

"The main objective of the Parent-Teacher association in the welfare of the children," Mrs. A. W. Rawson of LaGrange, district director, said in a talk on "The Unit Organization." She urged that presidents of the local associations "be fearless of criticism," and that women called to active work feel it is "an opportunity for service rather than an obligation and a worry." She advised that responsibilities in the local groups be delegated to a large number of people and that local people be asked to give talks and lead discussions.

A. T. Allen, council safety chairman and head of the school boy patrol at the Central Junior High school, outlined the plan which operates at the school with the support and cooperation of the Marion police department.

Two hundred and seventy-one children were examined in the Marion pre-school clinic this year, according to a report by Mrs. Francis Hurst, district health director. Mrs. Hurst gave a short talk on disease prevention.

Werner Zilch of Amherst, district membership chairman was scheduled to speak this afternoon. Other speakers to appear on the program are Mrs. I. W. Basinger of Mansfield, Fire Chief T. J. McFarland, Lieut. John Krichbaum of Findlay, in charge of District A of the state highway patrol, Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast and Miss Heights Junior High school.

Mrs. Harold J. Grigsby and Mrs. George G. Kleinmaier were in charge of registration this morning. Mrs. Walter Shealey, president of the Marion council, presided and introduced the guests.

Mrs. Z. P. Davis, council music director, led in group singing and Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, read the scripture lesson and offered prayer.

TO JUDGE CAKES AT MEETING OF GRANGE

The judging of cakes in a baking contest will feature a meeting of Grand Prairie grange in two weeks, it was planned at a regular meeting Tuesday night at Grand Prairie schoolhouse.

During a business session the charter was draped for Elery Elmore Foos. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White, former members of Mt. Olive grange were transferred to membership in the Grand Prairie group.

Mrs. Dean Hinsmon, assistant lecturer, presided for a program hour. George Peterson gave a talk on soy beans and a discussion followed on the care and uses of soy beans. A contest closed the program hour.

A refreshment committee named for the next meeting includes Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hinsmon, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White, Mr. and Mrs Oscar Hord and Mr. and Mrs. John Barkley.

Terrible Breaking Out on Baby. Cleared by Cuticura.
"My daughter, age one, had a terrible breaking out come on her cheeks. Her cheeks first became red with little cracks, then little pimples began rising up. She did not sleep, nor I either. She cried and would fuss, especially at night, until in the morning she looked terrible.
"I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. Then I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, and now her face is just as smooth as before the irritation." (Signed) Mrs. Walter R. Stone, Edgewood, Iowa.

MURDER TRIAL JURY TO BE DRAWN FRIDAY

Judge Young Orders 60 Names Pulled from Wheel for Spagiani Case.

A special venire of 60 prospective jurors for the first degree murder trial on Oct. 22 of Dominic Spagiano, 47, of 890 Kenton avenue, will be drawn Friday by Jury Commissioners E. O. Siefert and Miss Louise Cunningham.

Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young yesterday ordered the special venire drawn.

A jury of 12 to serve at the trial will be selected from the names to be drawn Friday.

Spagiani faces the charge in connection with the fatal shooting of Jesse Yoder, 37, of 761 Creston avenue, Aug. 4, following a quarrel over 10 cents in a penny ante poker game. Yoder died two days later.

Spagiani pleaded not guilty to the charge both at his arraignment in municipal court and to an indictment returned by the September term grand jury.

GIRL SCOUT LEADERS TO ATTEND CAMP

A week-end camp for Girl Scout leaders, on Sept. 28-29, was arranged for at a leaders' meeting Tuesday night at the Democratic headquarters. Leaders interested in attending have been asked to notify Miss Marguerite Hill of 340 Hane avenue.

A "camp rally" program in charge of Miss Marion Conley consisted of scout songs and games, talks on "My Camping Experiences" by Miss Zelda Terry, who attended Camp Alesga at Moundsville, W. Va., Miss Conley who was a councilor at the Akron Girl Scout camp, and Miss Marguerite Hill who was a leader at Camp John A. Owens, a talk by Emily Wolfel on her experiences at Camp Owens and a talk by Jean Verburg on her experiences at the Akron camp.

COMMITTEE NAMED BY PROSPECT CLASS

Mrs. Fred Wilson and Miss Helen Mounts of Marion and Clinton Willey were named on a program committee for the year at a meeting of the Allegresse class of the Prospect Baptist church Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirby at Prospect. Mrs. Wilson will serve as chairman of the group.

Rev. Rex Van Court conducted the devotionals and presided for a business session. Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party in the church basement next month. A committee composed of Miss Helen Cox, chairman, Miss Harriet Beery, Charles Beard and William McPherson will arrange the party.

Guests were Rev. and Mrs. B. D. Hughes of Marietta and Stanley and Verne Kirby of Prospect. Refreshments and a season of games and contests completed the meeting.

Don't Pay Over 25c For Medicine Friday and Saturday

SUFFERERS FROM STOMACH TROUBLE, WEAK KIDNEYS, LAZY LIVER, NERVOUSNESS AND GENERAL RUN-DOWN CONDITION:

Every person who suffers can have a liberal introductory bottle of the World's Newest Medicine to try for 25 CENTS. Simply read the offer below. Do this in your own interest.

This new and scientific medicine, known as Indo-Vin, has helped 85 (or 90) per cent of the people who have taken it. Therefore, we offer the first trial bottle at 25 CENTS, because we believe the people who are benefited will keep on using it. The regular full-size price of this medicine is $1.25.

WHAT IT IS!

Indo-Vin is a new, advanced medical compound of 2 of the Finest Medicinal Herbs, and not one a habit-forming drug. It is taken after meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus throwing off the poisons that foster stomach troubles and permitting the kidneys and liver to function properly. It acts within 10 minutes to stop gas and pains, sourness, bloat and belching. It will not gripe or nauseate you like ordinary liver medicines. It will work the bile from the liver as black as ink. At the same time Indo-Vin drives the poisons from the kidneys and relieves backaches, bladder irritation and weakness. Relieves children from bed-wetting in a few days. Strengthens the nerves by natural means.

Now, whether Indo-Vin will help you as it has thousands of others—whether it will end your suffering in a day or a week—remains to be seen. But in light of what it has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for 25 CENTS, only a fraction of its worth. This introductory offer is good Friday and Saturday ONLY, so read the rest of this announcement and act at once. Do this in fairness to yourself and your family.

WHAT IT WILL DO!

Indo-Vin will cleanse your bowels (gradually—not drastic or severe) as they were NEVER CLEANSED BEFORE.

It will bring out awful gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been inside of you a long time, causing you many days of misery with headaches, dizzy spells, skin eruptions and lazy, drowsy, tired feeling.

Indo-Vin will relieve acid conditions and make the digestive organs sweet and clean and give complete relief from indigestion, bloating, sour stomach, shortness of breath and dyspepsia.

IT WILL give you the greatest appetite you EVER HAD IN YOUR LIFE.

Indo-Vin will act on sluggish kidneys and will help relieve BACKACHE, SHARP PAINS and RISING AT NIGHT.

It will make your liver more active; will clear away old bile deposits, thus relieving spells of biliousness and sick headache.

Believes those with rheumatic and neuritis pains, giving quick relief.

IT WILL clear up skin eruptions caused by the impurities in the organs, will overcome the sallowness or "muddiness" that is due to sluggish liver and will put the ROSY GLOW OF HEALTH into your cheeks.

Indo-Vin will make your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels more active, build you up in general and make you LOOK, ACT and FEEL like a DIFFERENT MAN or WOMAN, years younger than your real age.

(Friday and Saturday ONLY) bring To get your first bottle for 25c coupon to the store below, or send with 25c (stamps or coin) to Indo-Vin, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio, and medicine will be shipped postpaid.

LIQUOR STORE HOURS TO CHANGE SATURDAY

Marion Branch Will Open at 9 A. M. and Close at 11 P. M. Under New Schedule.

Beginning Saturday, the Marion county state liquor store will go on a new schedule of hours, to be opened at 9 a. m. and closed at 11 p. m., it was announced today by Francis W. Bacon, manager.

This will add two hours a day to the store's previous schedule. For the last year, it has been opened at 10 a. m. and closed at 10 p. m.

The change is being made, Mr. Bacon said, in response to numerous requests, especially for later service at night. The new schedule is one that has been followed satisfactorily in other cities, he said.

In connection with the changes, Mr. Bacon announced that August Smith whose residence is at Pilgrim Inn, has been added to the staff of the store, making a total of six including the manager, cashier and four clerks. Mr. Smith started work Monday and will continue work under the new schedule of hours, Mr. Bacon said.

It is the third change of hours made since the store was opened April 12, 1934. The first schedule was from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., later changed from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. The next change was from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Year in Prison Leaves Hauptmann Pallid, but Still Calm and Stoical

By The Associated Press

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 19 — Twelve months behind bars, seven of them with a death sentence hanging over his head, have done little to solve the riddle that is Bruno Richard Hauptmann. He was arrested Sept. 19, 1934.

His year of legal strife has left him outwardly unchanged, save for the minor changes attendant on imprisonment. His hair is closely shorn today and his face has the pallor of the death house. But as he awaits the decision of the court of errors and appeals, expected next month, he is calm and as stoical as he was during his long trial at Flemington.

Hauptmann's confidence in his destiny may have been shaken that night of Feb. 13 when he heard a jury of eight men and four women utter their conviction of his guilt in the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying, and heard himself sentenced to death. But he quickly recovered.

Called Ideal Prisoner

His jailers say he is an ideal prisoner. He asks no favors and he expects none. One prison official thinks his behavior may be traced to his war-time training in the German army.

He talks quietly to his guards and to Col. Mark O. Kimberling, the warden. He has professed his innocence many times.

Physically he is probably as fit as he was that September day a year ago when he was hailed and handcuffed on a Bronx street. His strong will is accountable for that. Hauptmann perhaps has never relaxed since he was imprisoned.

When he was brought to Flemington a month after his arrest he began losing weight, but he kept his mind occupied with his approaching trial. He read books and improved his English. He also exercised.

Exercises Conscientiously

In the past seven months, he has exercised conscientiously, stripping to the waist in his cell. This, along with the visits of his wife, Anna, his interest in his son, Manfried, in his appeal and in the autobiography he has been writing, have helped him considerably to master his emotions and keep him from despair.

Hauptmann has changed but little since he entered the death house at Trenton seven months ago when this picture was taken. His hair is closely cropped, he is paler and he has gained 10 pounds.

Four men have gone to death past his cell. Three went one night. Hauptmann was unmoved. He told them to "pray to God" and shook hands with the condemned, but his face was set.

A slight spiritual change is said to have taken place in him. He reads the Bible and religious books, brought him by the Rev. D. G. Werner of New York, his spiritual adviser.

Once, Mrs. Hauptmann said, she found her husband weeping. His cell walls are plastered with photographs of Manfried.

His lawyer, C. Lloyd Fisher, says Hauptmann feels no bitterness toward any one, save the federal agent, Thomas H. Sisk, whose testimony at the trial moved Hauptmann to cry but he was lying.

He has gained 10 pounds in the death house (most prisoners do gain weight), and all his visitors invariably say he looks well and is cheerful.

Next month he will know if he is to get a new trial. Meanwhile he waits.

Freedom "In Cards," Says Mrs. Hauptmann

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—Anna Hauptmann, wife of the convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby, believes she, her husband and their 22-month-old son, Manfried, soon will go on a long ocean voyage.

"It's in the cards," she said, showing visible traces of her year of fighting to save her husband.

"I don't believe in fortune telling, but a woman recently found in my cards that Richard will be home soon as a result of an awfully big, surprising thing. Then we shall all go on a long ocean trip. I know that will be true."

Mrs. Hauptmann sees her husband in the death house at Trenton once, sometimes twice, a month, as often as prison authorities allow. She receives mail from him about as often. Using her maiden name, Anna Schoeffler, to avoid publicity, she lives with her baby in a Bronx apartment.

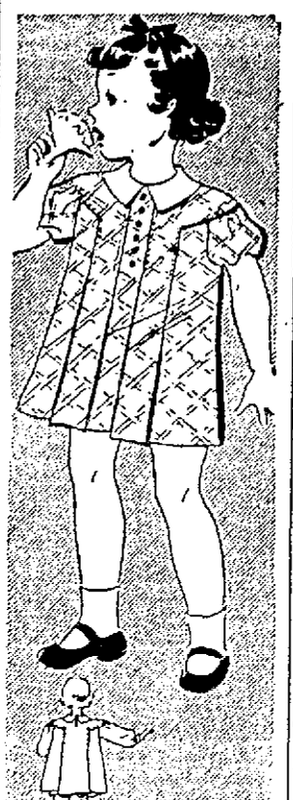
Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS



GROWING TOT CAN'T HAVE TOO MANY WASHABLE COTTON BLOOMER FROCKS PATTERN 2501

Mother highly approves the frock with bloomers for her growing youngster, whether that young "lady" is a wee kindergartener, or nearing her tenth birthday. Isn't she cute in her plaid cotton frock, either a light airy plaid, or a very bold one, which is the most serviceable from the laundry standpoint? The front is comprised of a yoke that's cut in one with its two generous box pleats; the back has a single box-pleated panel. Puffed sleeves are their own excuse for being, though long ones make the frock warmer. Bloomers to match are included in pattern.

Pattern 2501 is available in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 takes 2⅞ yards 36 inch fabric and ¼ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen cents, (15c) in coins or stamps (coin preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

The Anne Adams Pattern book for Fall and Winter is just out! In its forty handsomely-illustrated pages, you'll find just the smart and easy-to-use pattern designs you want—to keep yourself and family well dressed all season through. Exclusive designs for every occasion home, business, school, parties coats, frocks, undies....even doll wardrobes. Fascinating specialties to make for gifts. Helpful advice on fabrics, accessories, beauty, etiquet of dress. Send for your copy today! Price of book fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

(c) 1935 By Marian Sims

(Yesterday, SEPTEMBER 18 — Emily Barnes has married herself to life with her husband Edwin, although temperamentally they are entirely different. Emily is a prim manner and methodical and a constant annoyance to Emily. Now there is to be an heir and Edwin is in the throes of equally annoying state of reverence and misplaced help. Emily has tried to help them both by suggesting that Edwin go away alone for a vacation.

AFTER THIRTY-ONE
Sad Event

Edwin looked hurt. "Have I been as trying as that?"

He had a positive genius for the boomerangs of her most well meant words. Of course not but I've been trying, I know. And besides, it's good for husbands and wives to get away from each other occasionally, there ought to be a law compelling it.

That was the sort of statement that upset Edwin. Husbands and wives were meant to be together else why were they married?

I don't want to leave you," he insisted gently.

My dear, she said "I'm glad you don't. But one of the reasons for getting away is so you'll keep on not wanting to leave me. I can't very well go with you but then I'm not working nine hours a day. You are and you need a change."

And so do I' she longed to add 'I'm all right," he insisted. And I'd prefer not to leave you alone just now.

Business was not too good even if he had wanted to go (which he certainly did not.) Even the Barnes Grocery Company was beginning to feel the pinch but that was something that Emily mustn't suspect now.

If it would make you feel better about me she was insisting I'd go over home and stay while you were away.

He looked at her very hard. It isn't very flattering to find that you're so determined to get rid of me when you know I don't want to go.

It was no use of course. Some day perhaps she would learn that it was no use. She rang for the frozen salad.

August dragged its sluggish way into September and instead of moving forward the days stood still completely arrested by the heat.

October and Elston was breathing again. In a few weeks the trees would be a symphony of color from the pale yellow of the wood winds to the deep reds and royal purples of the bass viols. And in a few weeks Emily thought with a prayer of thankfulness this breathless waiting would be over. The first thing she was going to do—afterwards—was to buy a brown velvet dress that fitted like a glove.

There were leaden weights on her eyelids and there was a cloying odor of ether in her nostrils. For a breathless instant she was back at Lookout and Dr. Warde was coming to sit beside her bed and arrange her life so that it would be beautifully simple.

There was a nurse in the room she knew without trying to move the leaden weights and someone else a doctor perhaps? She whispered scarcely moving her lips.

Is—the baby—a boy or a girl?

"A boy, Emily." That was Dr. Proctor's voice, huskier than she had remembered it. "Don't talk now child go back to sleep."

A boy. Jeffrey Felton Barnes. It was a nice name, and she hoped he would be a nice boy. Surely with such a grandfather he couldn't help being. It would be different now in the little white house—The mists closed in once more.

When she awoke again the weights had been removed, and she was able to open her eyes. Only the nurse was there. Emily said looking eagerly at her.

"Could I see the baby now?"

And then in a devastating instant she knew. It might have been the shadow that crossed the nurse's face. It might have been a voice deep within herself, a voice that whispered that nothing enduring should ever spring from this marriage of hers. She closed her eyes again.

Don't — don't tell me" she breathed. "I know."

Jeffrey Felton Barnes after having achieved his entrance into the world at such a price had turned six hours later and very softly left it.

The living room looked very gay in the pale gold of the November sunlight. Very gay an' very empty.

How strange it was Emily thought as she reclined upon the threshold and looked at her room again after three weeks that a place could be made so empty by the absence of a personality that had never really been there.

For so long she had lived with the belief that the personality would be there and now she must adjust herself gradually to the idea that it would never be. The adjustment would take time.

She smiled eagerly at Edwin standing beside her. What heavenly chrysanthemums. Surely they're not from my garden."

Yes" he said. They're the last I think. Narcissus has been covering them up every night so they wouldn't freeze before you came home.

She crossed the room and touched the flowers gently then sank down upon the couch before the fire. Such a nice room Edwin—

He removed her hat and coat as if she had been a child put them carefully away. Yes it's a nice room. I'm going and tell Narcissus to bring you some cocoa.

Narcissus had been twice to the hospital and on one visit had brought Rosebud a round faced wide-eyed child who sat motionless on the edge of a chair and answered Yas'm and Naw'm to everything that was said to her.

But Narcissus greeted Emily now as if she had just returned from years in another world as perhaps she had.

Mary Is Frightened as She Sees Automobile Carrying Boys Start To Move.

"I THINK that is a very good suggestion," I told Williams when he had outlined his plan for putting the collie back in the car so that we would not lose him if he should suddenly decide to chase a cat or a rabbit. "The boys will have a good time guarding him and playing at driving and we shall feel that all three of them are safe. I'll leave the details to you."

"Thank you" he said as if I had conferred a great favor upon him and went back to the boys returning almost immediately with Scottie on a leash. The two boys happily trooped after him.

Good man Williams" Katherine commented as we watched him stowing the dog in the rear seat while the boys mounted to the front one. Evidently taking no chances, he snapped down the locks upon both rear doors with his own hands leaving the windows down enough for air but not for egress.

Then though we could not hear what he said we knew from his gestures that he was cautioning the boys about loosening those catches under any circumstances. The boys nodded emphatically, and whereas Williams quiet tones did not reach us we distinctly heard their shrill vociferations of "Sure thing!" "You bet your boots we won't," and kindred assurances of obedience to his mandate.

"I feel like echoing Roderick's pet phrase" I said.

"You bet your boots'" Katherine countered smiling.

"Exactly! I want to make my assent to your comment as emphatic as possible. He is an answer to an anxious mother's prayer. But then, anyone of my father's trusted men would be that."

"You never said a truer word" Katherine assented. "But your treasure evidently is air-minded."

We had been hearing the droning of an airplane for several minutes. It suddenly became louder and as Williams stopped and craned his neck toward the heavens we saw it, flying quite low toward us.

Suspects Trouble

"That's quite near enough thank you" Katherine pretended to address the aviator. "Look' Madge' He just missed those trees."

"Do you suppose he's in trouble or just doing stunts?"

We stood up and, turning watched the airplane disappear over a hill behind us. The next minute Williams came by us on the run.

I'm afraid that fellow is in trouble he said as he ran toward the hill.

With the instinctive thought of mothers I sent a quick glance toward the boys in the car fearing that they might want to follow Williams and find out what was the matter with the airplane. But they were evidently too absorbed in Scottie and the car to pay attention to anything else.

Roderick sat in the driver's seat twisting the wheel and evidently enjoying to the full his pretense of driving while Junior was stroking Scottie's head and talking to him both boy and dog absorbed and blissful in their close companionship.

Katherine looked at her wrist watch and rose flexing her arms and stretching them far above her head.

I could sit here for hours" she said but I might as well stroll over and begin to groom Faith for the next stage of the journey. I'll give Mary a chance to come over and take some rest. Drat that aviator. I'll bet he's trying to see how low he can fly without crashing. I wish he'd choose some other scene.

I echoed her wish as the airplane zoomed above us to a point above the field and across the road from us then circled and came back, traveling toward the ridge again. Williams who had raced toward the hill was half way back up it and watching the airplane. When it crossed the hilltop again Williams ran up the remainder of the hill and disappeared over it.

The next time the airplane came back it was flying a bit higher but making more noise than ever. It turned at about the same point as before and came back above us, the noise almost deafening us. Katherine and I had walked to the blankets where Mary was amusing the baby, and Katherine sent a quizzical glance at her charge, who was looking up into the sky, not at all frightened by the noise, evidently believing that the aviator was putting on a show for her especial benefit.

"Well' shall we change her name to Amelia?" Katherine demanded, but I did not answer her. Mary's face seemed suddenly frozen with horror, and she gasped out "Look' those kids have started that car! It's moving!"

NEVER A FURNACE CARE
The chill of an early fall reminds us that winter soon will be here. Will heating your home be the same old problem this year—constant attention to an out-moded heating method that produces uneven temperatures? Or will you choose clean, trouble free gas heat that provides continuous comfort? Better living with gas heat costs no more, all incidental expenses considered. Investigate gas heat for your home now.
The New JANITROL
The JANITROL gas burner operates automatically. You don't even need a match to start it in the fall, and you can forget it until time to turn it off in the spring. There is a correct size and type to fit your furnace or boiler. It can be easily and quickly installed.
Request A Free Heating Survey Of Your Home
Before installing gas-fired equipment in your heating plant we naturally would want you to have an estimate of its cost of operation. May we show you what other homes of similar size as your own pay for gas heat? Also may we estimate its cost for your own home? Its economy will surprise you. COURT RULES FOR BINDLEY

Judge Kear Orders Reinstatement of Ousted Fireman; Appeal Planned.

Burdette E. Bindley was ordered reinstated as a city fireman in a decision given today by Russell H. Kear, common pleas judge of Wyandot county.

Judge Kear gave the decision in sustaining of a common pleas court appeal action filed by Mr. Bindley after the city civil service commission had upheld Mr. Bindley's removal from the fire department May 1, 1934.

City Solicitor Theodore B. Ochs, after a conference with Fire Chief T. J. McFarland this morning, announced the city will carry the case to the Third district court of appeals seeking reversal of Judge Kear's reinstatement order.

Mr. Bindley was removed as a fireman after a disorderly conduct charge had been filed against him in municipal court at the result of Fire Chief McFarland and Police Chief William E. Marks' report that they had found him in a house of ill fame here. Mr. Bindley contended he was there as part of a personal investigation he was making of conditions in Marion.

Following his suspension as a fireman, he was found guilty in the municipal and common pleas court of the disorderly conduct charge but won a reversal of the lower courts' decision when he carried the case to the Third district court of appeals.

Judge Kear, in an opinion given in the case today, stated in part:

"The court after considering the pleadings, evidence and exhibits herein, is of the opinion that the appellant should be reinstated to his former position as city fireman for the reason that the evidence does not sufficiently substantiate the charges preferred against the appellant. The charges preferred against the appellant were not during the time that he was in actual service as a city fireman for the city of Marion.

"There has been no evidence to show that Mr. Bindley was not a competent and efficient fireman while on duty. No evidence to show any immorality, any disordered conduct or any habitual drunkenness during that time. No evidence to show that he did not follow the instructions of his superiors at all times while on duty.

"Now the question arises as to whether or not the chief of the fire department could lay down the rules and carry into effect the rules laid down during the time that the fireman was not in actual service, and if the chief of the fire department could actually enforce his rules during this time. The court is of the opinion that the chief of the fire department had authority over Mr. Bindley during the time he was not on duty and for that reason is not in a position to discharge Mr. Bindley on the grounds as charged in the affidavit, even though they be true. If Mr. Bindley had been found guilty by some court or by some body designated to try him on the various charges, then the court is of the opinion that the chief of the fire department could probably file charges against those who are under his supervision. The chief of the fire department probably would have had a right to file these charges against Mr. Bindley if he had been called for service during this period and if he had found him in a condition which would render him unable to perform the duties required of him as city fireman. This did not happen. No call was made for Mr. Bindley.

"The court feels that the evidence of the chief of the fire department, T. J. McFarland, was given in the best of faith by the chief, and the court has given the evidence of the chief, along with the chief of police, Mr. William Marks, and Mr. Jesse A. Warrick, former director of public safety of Marion, O., considerable thought and study, but the court finds that the evidence given by these witnesses is not sufficient to substantiate the charges made in the affidavit for the reason that the chief of police and the chief of the fire department did not actually see Mr. Bindley in any misconduct."

MRS. WARREN WISE IN IOWA HOSPITAL

Mrs. Warren Wise of the Marion-Delaware pike, is seriously ill at Baker hospital in Muscatine, Ia., where she was removed Friday of last week. She was accompanied by Mr. Wise, and yesterday her three children, Merle, Grace and Ruth Wise, were called to her bedside. They left at noon by motor for Muscatine. Mrs. Wise is the wife of Warren Wise, who operates grocery stores on East Center street and at the corner of Superior and South Prospect streets.

GETS APPOINTMENT

WALTER D. MOORE

HUMANE SOCIETY NAMES ATTORNEY

Walter D. Moore Appointed To Place Formerly Filled by the Late J. H. Eymon.

Walter D. Moore of 248 Gurley avenue, one of Marion's youngest lawyers, was named attorney for the Marion County Humane society at its meeting last night in the society's offices at 135 West Center street.

Moore, located in the law office of Donithen & Michel, succeeds the late James H. Eymon, who was attorney for the society several years. Following a business session, the board of directors instructed Mr. Moore to go before the Marion county commissioners with a request for funds to carry on the work of the Humane society in Marion county.

The new society attorney has been practicing law in Marion since Sept. 1 and has been handling the society's work the last two weeks. He graduated from the law school at Ohio Northern university last June.

Moore was prominent in college activities on the Ohio Northern campus and was a member of its fencing team for three years. Last year he captained the team which won the state championship. He was also captain of the team during the 1933 season.

At Ohio Northern, Mr. Moore was affiliated with Alpha Phi Gamma, honorary journalism fraternity. He was editor of the college annual, The Northern, in his senior year. He is a graduate of Harding High school and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Moore.

RACE HORSE DISPUTE UP IN MARYSVILLE

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 19—L. L. Aller of Richwood has filed suit in common pleas court in an action on replevin against Charles Chaney and Charles Miller. The case is being carried from the court of Justice of Peace A. D. Parish of Claibourne township, and rests with the clerk of courts pending the filing of an appeal bond of $200.

This case was originally tried before a jury in the court of Justice Parish on Aug. 26 and the defendants obtained judgment against Aller. At this trial the jury recommended that $100 claimed to have been paid to Miller shall be returned to Aller by Miller.

As the result of a court order from the justice court Sheriff William Rausch sold five race horses owned by Aller. The sale was held at Richwood. It is alleged a certain party gave Miller $100 to bid in on the horses at the sale. Miller is said to have credited the $100 against a debt he owed Aller. Cheney is said to have been the highest bidder on the five horses and bought them for $103.

Mr. Cheney took the horses to the Miller farm and turned them out to pasture. Later Cheney is said to have sold three of the horses for $350 and delivered them.

U. B. CLASS ELECTS SLATE OF OFFICERS

Mrs. Dwight Scranton was elected president of the Up and Over class of the First United Brethren church when the class season of meetings opened with a potluck supper Tuesday night at the community house. Other officers are Mrs. Marie Dilsaver, vice president; Dwight Scranton, secretary; Mrs. Ronald Keenan, treasurer; H. B. Gatton, reporter.

A Hallowe'en party will be held Oct. 15 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gatton of 738 Oak Grove avenue.

LODGE MEN PLAN TO ATTEND MEETING

Arrangements were made for a group of members of Marion Council No. 22 R. and S. M., to attend a grand council meeting Oct. 1 in Columbus, at a meeting last night at the Masonic temple.

Harvey T. Gracely of 331 East Church street is deputy grand master of the grand council.

Tonight Marion Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar, will have its first meeting following the summer vacation period. Friday night Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M., will confer the fellowcraft degree.

HISTORY IS REPEATED AS PITCHERS ENGAGE IN DUEL ON MOUND

First All-Intermediate Nine Takes 7 to 6 Win in First Tilt.

History repeated itself last night in the game between the first and second All-City teams as the No 2 selections carried off a 3 to 2 victory in a hard fought game

A tight pitching battle between Maynard Snyder No 1 team hurler and Coxie Weiss on the mound for the second team broke up in the last inning as Lingo singled went to third on Kenny Somerlot's double and came home with the winning run as Zahn flied to Harry Winters at third

After the No 2 team had scored one run in the fifth inning on two errors and no hits and the second tally in the fifth on two singles and a fly to the centerfield tro No 1 aggregation came back to even the count in the last of the fifth

With two men retired Sawyer was safe at first on a force out of Walt Baldauf at second Frank Robbins walked and Jerry Reimeyer tripled to send the two runners across the plate Crum flied out to Caris at first to end the rally The losers threatened in the fourth when an error and Harry Winters double put runners on third and second Two batsmen were retired to check the spurt.

Weiss and Snyder each walked two batsmen and had two misplays behind them Snyder struck out eight to Weiss' seven The losers had eight men stranded on the sacks while the No 2 team had seven

The second team won the first annual game between honorary nines of the All City poll last year by a score of 1 to 0 About 400 fans witnessed the game last night In ability of the first team to connect with Weiss' offerings cost the game this year the winning hurler forcing nearly a dozen batsmen to pop to the infield

No. 1 Team Wins All-Intermediate Tilt

Honors in the first game between first and second All Intermediate teams were captured by the No 1 nine 7 to 6 last night at Lincoln park in a preliminary to the All City team encounter

Two three run innings kept the No 1 team in the running while a home run in the seventh by Bender turned out to be the deciding tally A rally by the losers in the last half of the seventh was cut short after one run had crossed the plate

Flickinger lead off man for the No 2 team in the seventh was given a ticket to first when it was ruled Catcher Curren had interfered with the batter The runner went to second on a passed ball and came home as Leonard doubled Two strikeouts and a tip to the catcher prevented further scoring

Hitting honors were carried off by Robert Bender catcher for the first team He poled out a double triple and home run in four trips to the plate and drove in four runs scoring two more himself

Lashey pitcher for the first team allowed the losers five blows not yielding more than one hit to any batter Cowgill of the losers connected for a triple

SPECULATOR N Y Sept 19 —Max Baer is a little edgy today a little argumentive

If you take those signs as indications of perfect physical condition which fight handlers do then the erratic Californian is ready to duel Joe Louis in the Yankee Stadium Tuesday night

For instance a reporter from a New York newspaper whose sports editor favors the other fellow got a little close to the big curly head Baer casually dropped a short right hand punch on the writer's shoulder

Dictates Stories Now

Take that back to your editor he growled

Now the reporter can't write on a typewriter He has to dictate his stories

Baer is getting mean in the training ring Down as fine at 211 pounds that some of the visiting trainers and experts crowding his camp think he is overdoing it Max in evening up for past indignities

He smashed George Turner of Tulsa around yesterday after the 19-year old 190 pounder had made a punching bag of him for a couple of days He knocked down Abe Feldman a real heavyweight for the first time in Feldman's busy career

Life is miserable now for Baer's housemates in the log cabin four miles up in the Adirondack hills Lights automatically shut off from the town power plant at 10 p m

No radio no smoking nothing but the right food road work training have made a magnificent physical specimen of the former heavyweight champion but the usual ordeal has left the night club favorite healthy to a degree bordering on a nervous breakdown

I'm ducking him says Frank Packard his head conditioner He's no mean now you can't tell what he'll do

Max and his brother Buddy another promising heavyweight are getting further and further apart There may be a fine warm up battle there before Max gets into the ring with the Negro sensation

Even the experts trained down fine and are getting edgy One of the visiting experts Ed Edgar of Detroit got so worked up when he drew Baer to win by a knockout in one round in the traditional dollar camp pool that he paid his share for a dime

Fight On

Baer will cut down sharply on his boxing from now on though he plans to put on the gloves every day through Sunday He will scale about 208 next Tuesday and there is little chance that he will be allowed to fly down to New York with ticket sales indicating a sell out and the first million dollar gate since Jack Dempsey knocked out Jack Sharkey in 1927

Ticket speculators, visiting here, are offering $100 each for choice ringside seats

There will be a ringside broadcast over a national hookup

The main bout is scheduled approximately for 9 p m (Eastern Standard time) Preliminaries will begin about 7 p m

Braddock Impressed By Showing of Negro

POMPTON LAKES N J Sept 19—Here's a tip for Max Baer on how he can whip Joe Louis at the Yankee Stadium Tuesday night and it comes from no other than John Roxborough manager of the Detroit bomber

The only chance Baer has to beat Joe is to slip over a low left handed punch in the first round paralyze Louis and then nail him with a right declared Roxborough

Jam s J Braddock who lifted the heavyweight crown from Baer in June agrees with Roxborough that Max will be in for the fight of his life next week And he didn't overlook his battle with the former champion

I won't say for certain until I see Baer work at Speculator Friday but right now I'm kinda inclined to lean toward Louis said Braddock after watching the 21 year old Detroit fighter work out

Max can hit as hard or harder than this boy but he's got to watch out Louis hits faster and oftener

Except for another boxing session Saturday Louis is all through with hard work He planned to do only light work today Friday and Sunday

KIPPKE PROMISES TO "SURPRISE SOME ONE"

Michigan Coach Encouraged By Showing Gophers Bucks Look Better

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Sept 19 — Coach Harry Kipke already is promising to "surprise somebody" with his 1935 Michigan football team

Although the dope points to Ohio State and Minnesota as the power house teams of the Big Ten Kipke promises a better team than the one of 1934 which surprised even Kipke by failing to win a single conference engagement

"In another week" says Kipke "I expect to see plenty of speed Blocking has shown great improvement"

Prospects meanwhile were even brighter at Ohio State and Minnesota Coach Bernie Bierman sent his Gophers through a lively scrimmage yesterday and got results Andy Uram sophomore halfback, ran back a kick of 95 yards to score on the opening kick and then teamed with Levoir to tear the scrub line to pieces

At Columbus the Buckeyes threw the pigskin like a baseball tossing four or five laterals on one play in a short offensive workout Leon Dailey's accurate placing of punts about to step into Duane Purvis punting assignment at Purdue Dailey's accurate placing of punts was the big feature of the work out yesterday

Coach Bo McMillin of Indiana was worried about ragged blocking and tackling but Captain Reed Kelso 225 pound center gave him something to cheer about with his kicking Kelso kicking from the 30-yard line booted 25 placements between the uprights without an error Monday and added 22 more before missing

Down at Illinois Coach Bob Zuppke drove his men on with a demand for better knowledge of fundamentals Zup drilled his Illini on fundamentals for three hours yesterday before letting them engage in a signal drill Despite the hot weather which slowed up Chicago's practice for the second straight day Northwestern held its first scrimmage of the season

CHICAGO CUBS SET NEW SEASON RECORD WITH 15TH VICTORY

Routed, 15 to 3; Paul Dean Saves Cards; Indians Win Two Games.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The [illegible]-hungry Cubs have [illegible] another record on [illegible] toward the National [illegible] just about wrecking [illegible] of the Giants.

The Cubs routed the Giants 15 to 3 yesterday for their 15th straight triumph, holding their 2½ game margin over the second-place Cardinals and putting the Giants 6½ games to the rear.

The victory gave them not only the longest winning streak in either circuit this season, but also the longest in the National League since Brooklyn hit the 15-mark in 1924.

Hubbell Today

Charley Grimm's clouting crew looked good enough to go on almost indefinitely without a loss. Trailing 1-2 as they came to bat in the fourth inning they battered Clydell Castleman and Harry Gumbert. In the next frame the Cubs made three straight errors to load the bases, then retired the side without a run.

With a crowd of 33,000 out yesterday and more than 90,000 for the three games of the series, the Cubs looked forward to another big afternoon today in the windup of the important struggle.

With another win Chicago would need only four more victories in seven starts to keep the Giants out of the struggle. Bill Lee was the nomination to pitch, while Carl Hubbell was expected to oppose him.

The Cards, with 11 games to go against Chicago's eight, came from behind to trim the Dodgers, 6 to 3. A bad sixth inning put Bill Hallahan in the hole as Pepper Martin, subbing in the outfield for the injured Terry Moore, contributed an error to a two-run Dodger rally.

But the Cards smashed back with four straight hits off Tom Zachary and Bobby Reis to take the lead in the seventh and win behind Paul Dean's relief flinging.

In the American League, the Yankees delayed the final settlement a little longer by breaking even with the Browns in a double header while the Tigers dropped a 4-3 decision to the Red Sox.

The Cleveland Indians walloped the Athletics 10 to 5 and 10 to 0, with Mel Harder pitching four-hit ball in the second for his 20th victory.

Found Quick Way To Stop Gas And Sour Stomach

MR. GEORGE GEISER

When the stomach becomes deranged and the food fails to digest properly but lies there souring, forming gas, and causing a full sensation, when the backaches and the kidneys do not function properly, when the bowels are constipated and you have headaches, dizzy spells, coated tongue and the nerves are on edge, you should take Vendol and get the same prompt relief as so many men and women right here in this city have done.

Mr. George Geiser of 316 Quarry St., Marion, says, "I used to suffer daily with headaches, was nervous, couldn't sleep sound and my stomach was often upset. Seemed my food would lay heavy, turn sour and fill me with gas. I'd rift up sour liquids and undigested food. I was constipated all the time and often felt dizzy.

"I wouldn't take anything for the way Vendol overcame all these troubles. It has done more good than anything I ever took and I'm feeling better than for any time I can remember. I advise everyone to try this great Vendol medicine."

Try Vendol yourself. It is sold and recommended by all leading druggists everywhere and is being especially introduced by Sams Pharmacy and Hanney & Cooper.

Plans also will be made at the meeting tonight for the post to sponsor a drum and bugle corps and a girls' "poppy club" during the coming year. Officers for the year will be nominated this month and elected in October. Installation of officers is set for November.

REMODELING WORK STARTS AT THEATER

Ohio To Rebuild and Redecorate Front and Lobby.

Work of remodeling the front and lobby of the Ohio theater was begun yesterday.

The front doors were removed and the next step will be the removal of the marble pillars which support a decorative arch. A steel beam will replace the pillars, and when the work is completed the doors will have been moved about five feet into the lobby.

The underside of the marquee will be inclosed and the lobby ceiling will be lowered approximately four feet. The lobby will be refinished in black and silver.

The work will not interfere with the regular schedule of theater programs, J. J. Huebner, manager, said.

SHERRILL SUGGESTS BANK FEE CHANGES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19—Revision of bank examination fees, the Sherrill government survey asserted today, would increase the state department of commerce's income $100,000 a year.

It recommended changes in departmental administration functions to save $201,973 a year, in a report to Gov. Davey, who instigated the survey.

Col. C. O. Sherrill of Cincinnati, directed the survey, conducted by a corps of trained business experts. Already savings recommendations totalling more than $10,000,000 have been outlined.

HOBBY CLUB OFFERS APPRAISAL SERVICE

Will Provide Citizens Protection Against "Gyp" Dealers and Collectors.

As a protection for Marion residents against unscrupulous dealers and collectors, the Marion Hobby club will furnish men to appraise collections of stamps, coins, and other valuable hobbies, and family heirlooms and antiques, it was announced today following a dinner meeting last night at the Y. M. C. A.

From the membership men familiar with stamps, coins, Indian relics, old furniture, glass, and other hobbies and antiques will be appointed to view collections and articles and give an estimate of their value, a service which the club will give free of charge.

Such a service, the club officers feel, will protect Marion residents, especially those persons who inherit family heirlooms and antiques or have old furniture stored in attics, from the "gyp" collector or dealer.

The executive board, composed of Dr. F. A. Stangel, Earl Schwem, H. V. Alexander and Paul Reynolds will appoint the appraisers. Anyone wishing the service may call any member of the executive board.

Mr. Alexander was named chairman of a committee to arrange for a public stamp sale in October.

Earl N. Hale gave a talk on Zoar, O., which was founded early in 1800 by a group of Germans who planned a cooperative community, and Mr. Schwem talked on the Lincoln memorial at Springfield.

The club will meet again in two weeks.

CHILD WELFARE GROUP DEPLORES FUND CUT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19—A committee on child welfare told Gov. Davey today that drastic budget cuts for the state division of charities would impair "almost beyond recovery" the care for 30,000 dependent children in Ohio.

The Ohio committee on child institution personnel and staff training, representing 200 child caring institutions in the state, named a committee Wednesday to seek appropriation increases from the legislature.

Gov. Davey slashed $18,000 from the biennial appropriation of the charities division. The legislature allotted $215,310. Margaret Allman, state director of welfare, proposed an allocation of $192,460.

GRAND JURY INDICTS 2 IN WARREN HOLDUP

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 19—The federal grand jury voted indictments late yesterday, charging Anthony Librizetti and George Sargent, both of Akron, with the $125,000 postal robbery in Warren, O., last April.

RADIO ENTERTAINERS TO APPEAR TONIGHT

Arrangements Complete for Girl Scouts' Program

Arrangements have been completed for the benefit entertainment to be given by Ezra Martin and his troupe of entertainers from station WENS in Columbus, tonight, at the Eagles hall.

Proceeds of the affair will be used to purchase equipment for Girl Scout Troop No. 6, which is sponsored by Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. E., and made up of members of the Good Samaritan Sunday school.

Tickets are on sale by members of the scout troop, and the committee composed of Mrs. E. J. Hollandshead, chairman, Mrs. Ida Linst, Mrs. Ed. Rengert, Mrs. Jennie Shoots, Mrs. Lester Watts, or Miss Lillian Linst, troop leader and her assistants, Miss Eleanor Croman and Miss Helen Cathers. Tickets also may be purchased at the door tonight.

TOKYO, Sept. 19—A conviction that war was imminent in east Africa produced a boom on Japanese stock exchanges.

PENNANT TALK

● There's only one pennant-winner definitely "in" this year—and it's not New York, St. Louis, Chicago or Detroit. It's Goebel! And like a true champion, Goebel has come thundering down the stretch, until today the familiar brown bottle with the White Eagle label is one of the largest selling in the whole country! Open a bottle, and you'll know why. Sip it. That golden smoothness, that creamy mellowness, that sparkling Cypress Cask goodness, will win your pennant in any league! Why not order a case right now?

Assorted Mysteries.

European developments are coming too rapidly to be assimilated. Americans, still in the position of interested but impartial spectators, are full of questions for which there are no satisfactory answers.

Why does Italy seem to vacillate between determination to invade Ethiopia at any cost and willingness to abandon aggression for peaceful settlement? Is Premier Mussolini still open to the possibility of compromise?

What does Italy see in Ethiopia worth the cost of a military campaign which threatens, besides its direct cost, to precipitate chaos at home? Is its preparation for the campaign really dictated by economic necessity, is it dictated by political necessity, or is it a manifestation of Benito Mussolini's well advertised blood and iron philosophy?

What justifies Italy's defiance of the powerful British navy? Could Italy expect to hold its own with Britain in naval combat without allies, and what allies could there be? Furthermore, what is Great Britain's motive for making an overt display of its naval power in the Mediterranean? Is the British government interested in preserving its prestige and territories at the possible price of breaking the peace?

Is Premier Mussolini a super-statesman capable of out-thinking other governments—a man who has plotted in advance the moves he now is making—or is he a dictator whose development of a mighty military machine has given him delusions of power impelling him toward a catastrophe he does not foresee?

Possibly, by the time answers to questions like these are available, the Italo-Ethiopian crisis will be a matter of dying soldiers and international complications that will confuse even more the querulous minds of those who are seeking answers. Yet, there still is a possibility the answers may be given in an atmosphere of relief over a crisis dissolved by factors whose power in the midst of so much confusion can only be guessed, not defined.

Quiet, Please.

It must be a sign of the country's approach to maturity that so many of its communities are trying to do something about avoidable noise. The idea that promotion of quiet is not only desirable but feasible has taken root and is spreading.

New York City's anti-noise campaign naturally is getting the most attention because it is taking place in one of the world's noise centers. The metropolis is learning things in its campaign which will become the lessons of experience for other communities.

For instance, it has been reminded that a noise campaign, to be effective, must attack more than noise, which frequently is the result as well as the cause of annoyance. Motorists do not blow horns without provocation. Therefore the provocation must be considered.

Much noise, of course, is thoughtless, and it is this type of annoyance which can be outlawed without complications. Garbage and ash cans do not need to be flung to the pavement. Radios do not need to be tuned loud enough to entertain a neighborhood. Automobile horns do not need to be substituted for doorbells.

In the course of half a century cities may have worked out regulations effectively controlling avoidable noise. A beginning has been made and an attitude is becoming established. The United States, as it becomes more settled in its ways, will turn against hintancy as the sign of its adolescence.

Without a Country.

Persecution of Germany's Jewish minority by the Nazi party has been brought to a horrible climax by revocation of Jewish citizenship. No greater legal insult could have been given to Jews by Germany's zealots of racial purity.

The decree makes German Jews revert to a condition of the middle ages when citizenship frequently was the prerogative of classes. The citizen purchased protection of his liberties with taxes and military service. In modern Germany, however, there is not even a pretense of reciprocation. The Jew must serve the state, but will get no protection in payment. He is a subject of a government which is dedicated to his extermination.

Revocation of citizenship in the case of persons naturalized in a foreign country is not an uncommon practice. Germany, however, by depriving Jews of the rights of citizenship, is forbidding them to have a country, since the vast majority of German Jews were born in Germany. The decree exceeds even the arbitrary rules over citizenship which were common in medieval times.

A movement to guarantee protection to racial minorities, most important of which is the Jewish minority, gathered force after the World war. In the settlement of the war, statesmen showed an humanitarian interest in the unhappy race which variously has been Europe's greatest problem and its greatest blessing. It seemed for a time that material progress would be made.

Hopes were shattered, however, as old hatreds reasserted themselves. Still, until recently, few foresaw the extreme of disillusionment to which national Socialism and its creed of racial purity would bring central Europe. Desire to be sympathetic with Germany in its struggle for national reconstruction is discouraged by this latest manifestation of reversion to a period in history when the individual had no rights which couldn't be removed by the decrees of fallible men exercising the authority of the state.

Are They Alternatives?

Former President Hoover's statement at San Diego Tuesday on the conflict between traditional freedom and a controlled economy is a valuable contribution to contemporary debate on that score. Mr. Hoover, by virtue of political position and philosophy, is the most influential exponent of the point of view favored by critics of controlled economy. His remarks command a hearing.

Mr. Hoover believes the attempt being made by the Roosevelt administration to increase economic security is a threat to individual freedom as guaranteed to Americans in the bill of rights. The threat is not direct—"liberty never dies from direct attack." Rather, in a desperate effort to provide economic security, liberty is being undermined thoughtlessly. The United States is doing moderately what Russia, Germany and Italy have done extremely.

Gradual abandonment of the fundamentals of liberty, moreover, will not produce economic security. Benefits of control, obtained at the expense of freedom, will be temporary. Ultimately, people will become aware of a loss of liberty without compensation in the form of an enlarged economic security. The task, therefore, is to prevent what ultimately would appear as a tragic error in social method.

Briefly, that is Mr. Hoover's thesis. Obviously, it is open to challenge by the Roosevelt administration, whose spokesmen will deny, as they have denied many times, that they love liberty less than Mr. Hoover. But in any exchange of words on that point, he has an advantage, because he does not charge the present government with deliberate intent to destroy liberty but only with unthinking submission to forces which eventually must abrogate the bill of rights unless they are checked.

Mr. Hoover argues that a controlled economy following new deal patterns cannot exist harmoniously with the traditions of freedom which the United States has inherited from generations of ancestors who struggled successfully to shake off the chains of autocratic government. Freedom and regimentation are alternatives, as he sees them. They cannot exist together.

The opposing contention is that they can and must be made to exist together. Political liberty is empty, the arguments runs, without economic liberty. The latter must be secured for the sake of the former. It has been in the name of economic liberty, of course, that European dictatorships were tolerated. In Europe, however, the tradition of freedom is not the substantial thing it is in the United States.

Mr. Hoover has described the terms of a choice. He has given expression on many occasions to a conflict which exists in the minds of many of his countrymen—a conflict which is deeper than partisanship but which, if it continues to develop in intensity, may provide the Republican party a new basis of opposition to the Roosevelt administration.

The Tin Can Age.

Modern civilization's motto might well be: If it exists, you can buy it in cans.

On the shelf in the fisherman's cabin is a can of salmon. The African savage carries water in an empty oil can. The American housewife places the can opener ahead of the paring knife among household utensils.

The empty tin can marks the trail of civilization in every part of the globe. It travels with the army at the front and back home it is a backlog of security in the kitchen cupboard.

From afar it brings precious foods and meats, oils and spices. Relieved of its original burden, it taxes the space of city dumps and clutters the fence corners. Its universal use makes the whole world kin.

It has entered a new field now, which is an important factor for two reasons. In the first place, its entrance into the field upsets a traditional procedure, and in the second place a vast new market is being opened.

Beer is being sold in cans, to the dismay of the bottle manufacturers, who doubtlessly will rally their forces for a stiff fight. It seems likely, though, they will be forced to share their business, at least. The tin can, apparently, has no limitations. At least, it recognizes none.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—Papa Moneta's culinary shrine is along a tumbling stretch of Mulberry street in the scythe of the Italian quarter and off a hip of Chinatown. Across the street, in one of those triangular slum breathing spots, Chinese, Italian and other foreign born children frolic the day long.

Surrounding windows frame faces of tired women on their "leaning cushions." Every block almost, has its black mustachoed, velvet tammed basket salesman of religious statuary. From an occasional cellar floats the strains of accomplished accordionists and vicarious Rigoletti quartetter.

The standardized foreign tenement quarter the world over. Yet into this aqualor Papa Moneta brings New York's most discriminating gourmets. Through his little green canopied doorway come such regulars as Frank Crowninshield, Ben Ali Haggin, George Jean Nathan and Achmed Abdullah.

Moneta's has the unpretentious charm that distinguished red bricked Voisin's in the rue Cambon. Pin neat but not showy. There are no chatoyant divans, chromium edges and swoops of mirrors. It might be a restaurant of the '80's. Neither is it ever crowded. Better restaurants of the world seldom are.

A gentleman of importance writes me of restoring his thinning hair to former luxuriance after many false starts. His recipe: An English whalebone bristled brush, 100 strokes a day, then rub in cocoanut oil—not cocoanut butter. Says he: "This process brushes the dead hairs out and is a great stimulant. I figure no knacks are ever bald. They must use cocoanut oil. Hence!"

The most persistent seeker for the baldness panacea is likely Aubrey Eads, who has chased the will o' the wisp to all parts of the world—London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Constantinople. He has spent a sizeable fortune in the quest over a period of 15 years but his hair still thins. Yet he does not regard the results with pessimism. "Maybe," he observes, "without these ministrations I would have been entirely bald long ago."

Louis Sobol and Ed Sullivan, the Broadway columnists, have become two of waning vaudeville's smooth masters of ceremony and are frequently three sheeted with names in lights at picture palaces. In contrast to their rather saucy calling, their manner is reserved and minus exertion. They stimulate and accelerate the various acts without those Chesterfield cracks, wine bibbing smirks, and shriekings that have made ringmasters pests.

Incidentally, it was just 17 years ago that New York beheld its first master of ceremony. Raymond Hitchcock in his "Hitchy Koo" revue. The comedian in evening dress and top hat greeted his audience in the lobby calling them by name, making introductions and strolling the aisles at intermission to exchange banter and give the goings-on an aura of informality and small townness the theatre had rarely known. The idea was Karl Kitchen's.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Sept. 19, 1925.

Three men were seriously injured in a riot resulting from a clash between several hundred members of the Ku Klux Klan and anti-Klansmen at North Brookfield, Mass.

More than 300 members of Marion Lodge No. 70, Free and Accepted Masons, and other Masonic bodies took part in a reception held for James A. Knapp on his return from Pittsburgh, where he had received the thirty-third degree of Masonry.

Will Rogers in his weekly letter commented on the fact that too many people were carrying guns, and asked the question, "Are all escaped lunatics to be furnished with guns and ammunition?"

Willard Malone, 23, was instantly killed at Marysville by an electric shock which he suffered when he touched an electric light bulb containing a short circuit.

Mrs. Herbert Jackson and daughter Susanne left for their home in New York City after spending the summer with Mrs. Jackson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Cheney of North State street.

It was Sunday, Sept. 19, 1915.

The Meister family held its third annual reunion at Garfield park. Henry Meister of Marion was elected president.

Miss Helen G. Atkinson and Albert B. Wintermute, both of Marion, were united in marriage at Ashley by Rev. A. G. Shomaker, grandfather of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Merkel entertained Mr. and Mrs. George W. King, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dombaugh, Miss Berenice Christian, Miss Abigail Harding, J. H. Wetmore and R. T. Lewis at dinner at the Meeker hotel.

Miss Lucy L. Zeig of Green Camp and Cass L. Harper of Union county were united in marriage by Rev. Charles Schaaf at his home in Prospect.

Neighborhood History

DAVID STRAW

One of the wealthiest and most prominent business men of Wyandot county was David Straw, born March 28, 1826, in Pitt township. In the fall of 1844 he began to work at odd jobs and the following spring found him employed in Huron county where he remained several months at a salary of $13 a month. In November, 1845, he returned to Wyandot county with a capital of about $50 and opened a grocery store at Carey.

Through the advice of a grocery salesman of New York, a party in that city engaged Mr. Straw in 1847 to purchase and deliver a number of horses. Five men were employed to assist him in taking the drove of 42 horses to New York, the trip being made in 32 days.

The transaction brought larger contracts and he furnished horses for railroad work. This business led to his engaging in the wool buying business for Eastern firms, and later he represented a number of firms in the grain business.

Behind The News In Washington And Wall Street

BY RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—When Ed McGrady threatened to expose any industrial or union leader who precipitated a strike in the coal fields, he wasn't thinking of turmoil in that basic industry alone. As President Roosevelt's spokesman, he feared that the scheduled walkout of 500,000 miners on Sept. 16 might signal a general outbreak in such key industries as steel, automobile and marine.

There are three danger spots on the industrial horizon. Some coal owners would welcome a short and sweet strike. They have a surplus of 30,000,000 tons above ground. In the automobile industry, where makers are shifting over to 1936 models, some workers think they would profit from a strike now and are resisting conservative counsels. California longshoremen are growing restless under communistic pressure.

With recovery en route it was essential to prevent a coal strike which might light the way to other troubles. So Mr. McGrady used rough language at secret coal conferences, saying: "If any of you bring on a strike the blood will be on your hands—and I will name names of the men responsible!"

Changed

Insiders report that the most hopeful feature of the coal conference was the apparent development of better feeling between operators and union leaders. Many owners, especially the Mellon interests, have been willing to compromise. It is the southern operators who have held out.

Nobody deduces from this that the two groups have kissed and made up forever. But both look for improving conditions and both are loath to place stumbling blocks in the way. When some operators argued against granting wage demands for fear of dropping prices, their associates branded the contention as unwarranted. They pointed out that potential inflation may bring higher prices for coal mined at pre-inflation costs.

In the past recovery has usually made union leaders cocky and conscious of their striking strength—and sometimes it has had the same effect on the operators. But five years of little work and red ink appears to have changed their psychology. To the delight of federal conciliators and industry's representatives, responsible labor leaders are not presuming too much on their recent legislative victories—the Guffey and Wagner bills, for instance.

Reds

It now appears that President Roosevelt's denunciation of communistic activities—and his note to Moscow—was inspired by specific evidence of their persistent penetration of labor unions. It was supposed to have been motivated by purely political considerations.

He may have had in mind certain occurrences aboard the President Pierce. The ship left New York for San Francisco some weeks ago with six leading communists signed up as members of the crew. On the trip they distributed subversive literature which had been printed in Moscow and had incited most of the crew to strike by the time the vessel reached San Francisco. When federal representatives settled the strike they refused to permit the six agitators to go aboard for the return voyage.

But the crew refused to turn a hand unless the communists were allowed on board. The federals had to yield to this demand but also enrolled a few of their agents to keep close vigil on the disturbers. When the ship reaches New York in a few days Secretary Perkins will have six candidates for deportation. And previous tenderness toward potential deportees may now be a thing of the past.

Fees

Harold Ickes must soon decide whether $160,000 is a fair fee for whatever services a lawyer renders in obtaining $16,000,000 in PWA grants for municipal power projects. The question assumes absorbing political interest because the lawyer happens to be Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, a man high in Democratic councils and President Roosevelt's floor manager at Chicago.

Mr. Mullen did not handle the applications because he is interested in the new deal power program. He has also served as lawyer for public utilities in opposing federal grants to municipal power plants. Though Mr. Ickes and the President have denounced "lawyer lobbyists," they can't prevent corporations and cities from engaging men supposed to be influential at Washington. Mr. Mullen is still doing a land-office business and so are many other loyal Democrats.

Mr. Ickes has chipped many thousands of dollars from these bills, which may explain why politicians call him "hard-boiled." But he points out that these fees come out of taxpayers' money and it's up to him to keep them down.

Jobless

An almost unnoted discovery of FERA investigators casts an ominous light on the problem of permanent unemployment. It discloses that one out of every five persons on relief, ranging from 18 to 64 years old, is physically disabled. This means that about 2,000,000 reliefers were incapable of returning to work even in boom times.

It is estimated that 2,000,000 more will never again be able to go back to self-sustaining employment because of age, inadaptability or destruction of morale during the depression. Perhaps 2,000,000 additional—and that is a conservative estimate—will be thrown on the scrapheap because of technological improvements in the industrial machine. Then there are from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 who never worked in the best of times.

Thus the total of unemployed or unemployable in a normal industrial period may go as high as 7,000,000 or more. You don't hear much about it but the economic planners favor a program which will recognize this fact. It looks toward annual relief appropriations, permanent emergency measures and, of course, much higher taxes. The politicians don't like the idea.

Notes

The new alcohol control administrator, Franklin C. Hoyt, has greater powers than were given to his predecessor, Joe Choate. He can fine violators, just like Potato Czar Joe Hutson... A large white-collar force is questioning income-tax-payers on their 1933 reports.... Scores of torpedo boat destroyers are laid up on account of old age ...Great activity now in all government departments—they've all got new funds.

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—Herbert Hoover is becoming a real headache to backstage Republican chiefs. The ex-President's attitude has changed subtly in recent weeks. It has been apparent for some time that he feels entitled to another chance—but until lately New York insiders believed he would wait for the nomination to come to him instead of going out after it.

They figured their main problem was to convey the idea that he wasn't wanted as tactfully as possible. They knew they couldn't push him out of the picture entirely—but they hoped he would accept the inevitable gracefully and confine his activities to promoting someone else's candidacy.

Now it has been made painfully clear to them that Mr. Hoover has no intention whatever of being shoved into the role of backseat driver. He has made up his mind that watchful waiting is futile. He will not declare himself a candidate publicly—for a while at least—but he has privately mobilized the remnants of his political machine to line up delegates for next year's convention.

Network

Mr. Hoover also plans a sustained barrage of verbal assults on the New Deal instead of the occasional pot shots he has indulged in up to now. Informed sources understand he has appointed himself Mr. Roosevelt's critic-in-chief—and that he takes the appointment seriously.

The prestige of his former office will assure publicity for his utterances that potential rivals cannot command. The object is to impress himself on the public mind as the logical and outstanding leader of the crusade against Roosevelt heresies.

These developments give GOP string pullers the shivers. They are certain his nomination could lead only to disaster in 1936—yet they dare not fight him too openly and he is impervious to hints. His personal machine is by no means the hopeless wreck you might expect. Party big-timers oppose him almost unanimously—but so they did in '28 and what did it get them? His earlier success was founded largely on a wide network of carefully cultivated contacts with minor political bosses—and it's this network which is being revitalized now.

Roller

The sad part of it is that the best minds behind the Republican scenes can't figure out what to do about him. After all, Mr. Hoover is the party's titular chief. He is evidently determined to carry his battle for vindication to the finish. If they repudiate him directly they risk a party split that would ruin all hopes of victory next year. There are cynics who favor letting him run and take his licking in order to get rid of him permanently—but such defeatism is distasteful to the majority of inner councillors.

Expert diplomacy seems to be the only hope of inducing him to step aside. And that brings up the difficult question of finding an emissary to whom he will listen. Few easterners are in his good graces. It's doubtful whether even Ogden Mills—if he could be persuaded to tackle the job—could put it over.

Innovation

The investment house of Salomon Bros. & Hutzler has sprung a new system of floating securities that has Wall Street in something of a dither. Instead of underwriting corporate issues in the usual way—which involves a syndicate of dealers to handle distribution and share the risk if the offering is at all large—this firm has marketed two big issues on a straight commission basis with no other dealers participating. The securities have been sold direct to investing institutions. Swift & Co. raised $43,000,000 this way at the incredibly small cost of $172,000—and Socony-Vacuum will only have to pay $200,000 to raise $50,0000,000.

The secret of the low cost lies in the fact that the distributing house assumes no responsibility for how much of an issue is sold—and therefore charges no spread to cover dealer risks. The issuing company takes the chance of a poor demand that the underwriter normally covers. But the pioneer experience of Salomon Bros. & Hutzler shows this risk is slight if the issue is priced right. Investors come a-running without waiting to be solicited. The investor saves money by this method too with the price spread eliminated. A further point worth noting is that market rigging is automatically obviated—since it isn't worth any one's while to doctor prices.

In fact, all hands gain by the innovation except the dealers who would normally cut in on the profits of distribution. They don't like it much. If it became common practice it would turn the investment banking business upside down. But it won't—partly because many corporations will still prefer a guarantee of the amount of money they will get from a bond issue to the cheaper cost—and partly because the investment banking fraternity won't let it. If it threatened to become general they could institute a subtle boycott of such offerings that would be most discouraging to issuers.

Dirt

The Stock Exchange forgives A. A. Berle Jr. his complaint about manipulation of transit stocks since he said that he would not ask a securities exchange commission inquiry and indicated his confidence that the exchange itself can handle the matter satisfactorily. The boys appreciate that gesture and will do their best to dig out the dirt for his—and the public's—benefit.

Italy says: "No, thank y
den is nothing but a vas
uninhabitated by Italians.
Danakil, it has truly b
scribed by travelers as hole of creation.' "

Italy remembers how in a settlement that gave G
certain African lands sinc

THE GUMPS — BY SIDNEY SMITH

ONE MEAGLY DIME BETWEEN ME AND STARVATION, LITTLE ALICE - AND THIS CRACKER IS THE LAST CRUMB OF FOOD IN THE HOUSE - WELL - IT'S SHARE AND SHARE ALIKE - BUT HEAVEN KNOWS WHEN WE TWO WILL EAT AGAIN -
IN ALL THE WORLD NOT A FRIEND TO TURN TO - NOT A SOUL TO HELP ME OUT - NOW - AFTER ALL THIS, WILL I FINALLY BE DRIVEN TO GO GROVELLING BACK TO THAT CRUEL TYRANT OF A SON-IN-LAW - TO CRINGE AT HIS FEET - BEG FORGIVENESS - THEN LET HIM ABUSE ME AND MISTREAT ME AGAIN ?
NO-NEVER! NEVER WILL I GO BACK AND SEE THE PROUD NAME OF DE STROBE HUMBLED IN THE DUST - I'LL STARVE FIRST - LET THEM FIND MY THIN, EMACIATED BODY LYING HERE - LET THEM POINT THE FINGER OF SHAME AT THE PITILESS BILLIONAIRE WHO DROVE HIS INNOCENT MOTHER-IN-LAW TO HER DEATH - SIR GUMP WILL BE SORRY THEN!

ANNIE ROONEY — BY BRANDON WALSH

GOOD MORNING, MY DEAR - HOW WELL YOU ARE LOOKING. I SUPPOSE YOU ARE HAPPY BECAUSE NICE, GENTLE AUNT MARTHA HAS COME TO VISIT HER BROTHER - IS SHE GOING TO STAY LONG ?
I SUPPOSE HER BROTHER WAS DELIGHTED WHEN HE HEARD SHE WAS COMING ? DO YOU FIND SHE HAS A BAD TEMPER ? WHAT'S THE MATTER ? HAS THE CAT GOT YOUR TONGUE ? WHY DON'T YOU ANSWER A CIVIL QUESTION ?
BECAUSE I TOLD HER NOT TO SPEAK TO ANY RATTLED-BRAINED SCANDAL-MONGER WHO HASN'T THE POLITENESS OR GOOD SENSE TO MIND THEIR OWN BUSINESS
DARRELL McCLURE
I KNOW ALL ABOUT YOU, MISS SARAH... YOU'RE THE TOWN'S LOUDSPEAKER... THE LIKES OF YOU SHOULD BE KEPT IN THE POUND WITH THE REST OF THE STRAY CATS. THE NEXT TIME YOU PUT YOUR NOSE INTO MY BUSINESS - IT'LL BE ALL TWISTED UP BY THE TIME YOU GET IT OUT

BRINGING UP FATHER — BY GEORGE McMANUS

I THINK IT'S JUST TOO SWEET FOR WORDS TO HAVE ALL OF THESE CONVENIENCES ON THE STUDIO GROUNDS -
I JUST MAILED ALL OUR LETTERS AND YOUR PAY-CHECK -
YOU DIDN'T PUT THEM IN THAT MAIL-BOX JUST OUT SIDE THERE!
I DID - WHY WHAT'S WRONG WITH THAT?
THAT'S NOT A REAL MAILBOX IT'S JUST A PROP THEY USE ON A STAGE SET - WHERE IS THE MAIL-BOX THAT WAS JUST HERE?
THEY JUST TOOK IT AWAY AND BURNT IT UP. THEY ARE ALL FINISHED WITH IT -
